Galen Growth Announces Its 2021 HealthTech Cohort With 25 New HealthTech Ventures Across the Globe

SINGAPORE – 4th Feb 2021 - Galen Growth, the leading digital health analytics and data company, is excited to announce a new intake of 25 HealthTech ventures to its successful HealthTech Cohort programme.

With a 34% increase in digital health funding worldwide in 2020, HealthTech ventures and entrepreneurs continue to make impactful contributions to digital health innovation across the patient journey.

To support digital health ventures across the globe, Galen Growth's HealthTech Cohort programme equips members with the support and exposure they need to be the next generation of healthcare innovators.

"Our unique DNA has always been to be a steward and support for aspiring ventures in our ecosystem," says Founder and CEO of Galen Growth, Julien de Salaberry.

"We believe that by building a community of innovators and pairing them with our network and acceleration programmes, we can continue to redefine healthcare," he said.

The HealthTech Cohort membership is offered on a no-fee and no-equity basis, welcoming innovators to a passionate community programme built on established and proven methodology in digital health innovation.

In addition to the support from Galen Growth, the 2021 intake will receive support from AWS, Baker McKenzie, Hubspot and Found8.

"Technology startups are high risk, high reward ventures. As CEOs, our job is to reduce the risk of failure. Galen Growth promotes mentoring, information sharing and ecosystem nurturing, which helps increase the odds of success. This is a chance that every entrepreneur welcomes," said James Hare, the Co-Founder and CEO of Us2.ai, alumnus of the 2020 HealthTech Cohort.

The 2021 HealthTech Cohort will represent the growing diversity of the global digital health ecosystem, with ventures across APAC, United States, Europe and the Middle East. These ventures will be tackling various healthcare pain points, including mental health, disease management, clinical trials and access to healthcare in developing nations.

We are extremely proud and honoured to be selected as part of the Cohort team said Shaun Rossiter CEO RunK*i*cker. As 2021 is slated as the Year of Digitising the Patient/Customer experience RunKicker is extremely well positioned to make significant inroads in firmly establishing ourselves as the Platform to serve our customers. Our aim is

1) To create AI driven, frictionless, modular & digital based Health Risk Assessment tools that continuously assess a person's risk - at the Edge reducing costs and condition severity.

2) To be embedded as the trusted partner of choice for a tool of assessment before the patient enters (or at) the Clinics and out in the Field as THE personal Health Tool (platform).

3) Build out our AI library of capabilities – second to none in terms of capability and market (data) depth.
